The Controller of the Currency Avoiding Further Contraction.

HIS SCHEME FOR NATIONAL NOTES

To Add $15,000,000 to the Circulation and Remove a Big Tax.

FACTS ALL FINANCIERS WILL READ

Expansion of our national bank circulation is the chief aim expressed by the Controller of the Currency in his forthcoming report. The methods he suggests to bring it about, the flaws in the present national bank laws, and many new and interesting comparisons lead up to his deductions.

WASHINGTON, November 25. - The forthcoming report of Controller of the Currency Lucey covers the year ended October 31, 1889, at which time there were in existence 3,319 national banks, the largest number in operation since the inauguration of the system. These associations possess an argregate capital of $620,174,365. The last reports of condition exhibit resources and liabilities on September 30, 1889. The number reporting at that time was 3,290. A summary of these reports shows: Capital, $612,584,surplus, $197.394.761: undivided profits, $84,865,869; gross deposits, including amounts due banks, $1,950,895,161; loans and discounts, $1,805,729,739, all of which items show an increase over any previous date.

The amount of efficiention outstanding was $208,662,732, of which $131,388,334 was secured by United States bonds, and the remainder, ful money in the Treasury. These banks held $194,972,900 in United States bonds, of which $140 471,700 were to secure circulating notes ($164,325,449 of specie and $86,752.593 of legal

A THIRD OF ALL THE CAPITAL. Within the year 211 banks were organize having an aggregate capital of $211,240,000. These banks deposited with the Treasurer, to secure circulation, $1,578,750 in United States bonds, upon which were usued $3,812.975 in circulating no es. Thirty-six of the new banks were organized in Texas, the largest number in any one State. The State of Pennsylvania has now the largest number of associations in operation; Massachusetts leads in point of capital stock, and New York in point of deposits and volume of hospitals.

The large number of new banks entering the The large number of new banks entering the system, and their wide distribution, it an evidence, the Controller says, that the system is adapted to the varied conditions existing within the extreme limits of the national domain. Within the year 41 banks went into voluntary liquidation; only 2 failed; leaving the net additions to the system 108, as against 90 last year and 123 the annual average increase since the finanguration of the system. Notwithstanding this increase, says the Controller, the system has not kept pace with the needs of the people for increased banking facilities.

IT DOESN'T PAY SO WELL.

This growing tendency to incorporate under the statutes of the several States is not at-tributable to any change in the law affecting either national or State institutions; but is charged directly to the fact, says the Controller, that no profit results to the banks by reason of the deposit of bonds and issue of cirdating notes. It is claimed in fact, he says, that an actual loss results in many Western States and Territories, where the interest is highest and banking facilities most needed. It is deemed certain by the Controller that withdrawal of bonds held in excess of the minimum requirements will continue so long as the present conditions exist, and it is asserted that legislation is necessary to prevent a contraction of the volume of national bank currency.

erning national banks should be so amended as to produce the following modifications: First.—The minimum deposit of bonds to secure dreutation should be fixed at 10 per centum of capital to respect to associations having a capital of $80,000 or less, and for all banks having a greater capital a minimum deposit of $31,000 in bonds should be required.

Second - Circuistion should be issued to the par value of the bonds deposited.

Third -Scini-annual striy on circulation should be so reduced as to equal one-fourth of I per cent per annum. It is held that these changes in the law would do little more than save the national hanks from loss on account of circulation if the present premium on United States bonds is main-

THE MINIMUM DEDUCTION. Taking as a basis of computation the capital stock as it appears in the summary of reports for September 30, 1889, the present minimum of deposit of bonds is found to be $95,297,283. If the law is amended as proposed, the minimum of bond deposit required will be reduced to $42,891,581, making possible a withdrawal of $43,891,661, making possible a withdrawal of $21,405,702 in bonds, upon which is based $46,-265,182 in circulating notes. It is asserted that this would greatly exceed the limit of probable contraction, it being fair to presume, says the Controller, that the banks now maintaining a deposit in excess of legal requirements would not withdraw the bonds thus released. Upon a careful survey of the entire field, it is the opinion of the Controller that the proposed legislatios, taken as a whole, would tend to arrest the present contraction rather than accelrest the present contraction rather than accel-erate it, for the following reasons:

WHY IT WOULD OPERATE. First-The present excess now held at a loss will probably increase if a profit is apparent.

Second-The banks now holding an excess will not avail themselves of the privilege of with-drawal conferred by the reduction of the mini-Third-The organization of new banks will be nearly or quite doubled, and the deposit of bonds received from this source will be maintained, even under the reduced requirements.

Fourth-The withdrawal of bonds by reason of banks going into voluntary liquidation will be

Filh—The addition of 10 per cent in circulation will apply to all bonds now on deposit, as well as those which may hereafter be piedged, and would add nearly $15.09,000 to the circulation upon present holdings.

The operation of these various influences, the Controller says, would tend to prevent any considerable reduction in the amount of bonds held to secure circulation, while the increased percentage of new issues would operate to neutralize the effect of any possible withdrawal, and might inflate rather than contract the total volume of national bank circulation. In any event the provisions of section 9 of the act of July 12, 1882, he says, will still be in operation, limiting the deposit of lawful money or withdrawal of bonds to $3,000,000 airing any calendar month, which would limit possible contraction to $36,000,000, which is less than the gross decrease of circulation during the year just closed.

A BAD TAX ON CIRCULATION. The reduction of the duty on circulation is commended, upon the ground that the present tax is unjust to the banks, because it is imposed on account of a privilege now valueless, and the revenues of the Government are in excess of its requirements. This semi-annual duty during the last fiscal year amounted to $1,410,831, and the total amount paid in Federal taxes to June 30, 1886, by the system, on capital, deposits and circulation, is stated at $137,664-125 57. The reduced rate of duty would pro-duce a sum in excess of the expenditures made by the General Government on account of the Danks.

In submitting this recommendation, the Controller states, that he has been largely influenced by the increased accessions to the system from Western and Southern States, and the evidence daily accumulating that it is not only adapted to the wants of that vastares now inadequately supplied with banking racilities, but that its adaptation has become more fully appreciated, it being of the greatest importance to those regions that the abundant capital of the older States be utilized, and through no other agency can it be so well accomplished.

The gain accruing to the Government by reason of national bank notes lost and unredeemed is estimated at not more than I per cent, nor less than one-half of I per cent of the local issue. This is based upon the amount now outstanding of circulation issued to groups of hasks which have been closed by reason of insolvency for iten or more years.

WHAT HE HAS AVOIDED.

WHAT HE HAS AVOIDED.

The Controller says he has avoided the discussion of the various plans which have been suggested for substituting other securities for United States bonds as a basis of circulation, and that he has confined himself to the presentation of such changes in the law as will be generally accepted as practicable, and which be generally accepted as practicable, and which wil be most likely to receive favorable consideration by Congress. He is of the opinion that the consideration of propositions tooking to the adoption of untried measures would involve a delay fraught with danger to the national banking system in its present exigency. In his opinion the adoption of the amendments proposed will afford the relief now necessary, and give an opportunity for proper deliberation before adopting more radical measures. He does not recommend any issue of long date bonds, which would defer the payment of the present issues as they mature, but does favor a roduction of interest upon existing bonds to 3% ner cent by the prepayment to helders of the difference between that rate of interest and the future per cent interest which the bonds now carry.

A PET BEAR FULL OF CHAMPAGNE. One of the Ways in Which Yale Collegians

Painted New Haven Red. NEW HAVEN, CONN., November 25 .- The appearance of people on the streets going to church put an end to the antics of Yale men who had celebrated their victory over Harvard continuously ever since the special from Springfield arrived, at 8 o'clock last evening. At a cafe kept by Jules Prokasky a party of 60 students bought a pet black bear which the proprietor had on exhibition, and started off on a tour with it. The first place visited was Moriarity's "Temple Bar," a resort frequented by students exclusively. The bear was first decorated with a wreath of blue violets, and little tufts of blue ribbon were tied into his long hair. A dozen or fifteen of the students got Bruin into a corner and forced a quart bottle of champagne into him. He soon became giddily intoxicated, but grew drunker as he was alternately filled with whisky and brandy. The bear seemed to enjoy the sport, and was finally taken out on the old green and set at liberty. It walked toward two policemen, who hastily sought headquarters, where the pranks of the collegians were re-

Constipation,

I become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1837, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."

—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."

GRATEFUL-COMPORTING. EPPS'S COCOA.

By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortined with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
